Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff		No	The bottom line is cost and practicality. Where to begin? It's important to recognize that as Americans we place a premium on our mobility, which we equate with freedom, and nothing satisfies that appetite like our cars. I see the abridged version of the debate centered on the upkeep and improvement of existing transportation infrastructure that offers the ability to move about with great freedom, through an extensive network of roads and highways, as opposed to a costly and rigid vehicle that offers short term benefits and leaves us with a long-term unfunded legacy. I believe that tax dollars, state or federal, would be best spent in upkeep and improvement of existing infrastructure that continues to prove its value.

Robert Gerald Lorge	Wisconsin Lieutenant Governor		No	We do not need any more LIBERAL SOCIALIST DEMOCRAT CRONY PORK BARREL PROJECTS. This TRAIN FROM SPAIN was NO BID, and was NOT Made In America but by Obama and Soros Socialist Friends in Spain, political payoffs to Bankrupt America and Wisconsin under the "CLOWARD PIVEN" Marxist strategy of the Obama Chicago Saul Alinsky International Socialists. We can't afford $810 Million TRAINS FROM SPAIN or the $10 Million or MORE per year to maintain it so that a few Liberal Elites can "FLY OVER" the I-94 Corridor from downtown central Milwaukee to downtown central Madison....or the REAL AGENDA to link it all up to CHICAGO but make WISCONSIN PAY FOR CHICAGO TO MINNEAPOLIS down the line.

John Heckenlively	US House of Representatives, Wisconsin		No	While I support balancing the budget, mandating it would be foolish. In the event of a war or other serious crisis, such an amendment could constrain Congress from spending the money necessary to meet the needs of the country.

		Yes	No	Additional Comment (Optional)
Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	Yes		The existing earmarks practice undermines the integrity of the legislative process for several reasons. They typically don't focus on merit but rather are driven by influence and special interests. Moreover, they're typically inserted into legislation that's completely unrelated to the earmark. If an item merits funding, it should stand on its own and not need to piggyback on other legislation.

Name:	What office are you running for?	Do you support the repeal of the federal health care bill
		Yes	No	Additional Comments (optional)
Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	Yes		The entire process of passing this bill flies in the face of everything that the legislative process is designed to do. It's not representative of the will of the people—it was essentially shoved down our throats. Beyond that and the shaky economic solvency it touts, the truth is that it's 2500+ pages of legislation that are essentially unknown, much less understood, by the legislators that forced it through, and even less by the citizens that have to live with it. Beyond the lavish praise from a handful of politicians, we know very little about what the bill contains regarding healthcare, or anything else for that matter.

		Yes	No	Additional Comments (optional)
Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff		No	I'm not convinced that the science behind global warming and carbon dioxide reduction is unequivocal. It's shrouded in controversy and fails to make a convincing argument. As a practical matter, the cost of compliance may very well prove to be the tipping point that forces some businesses to close their doors and/or eliminate jobs. Furthermore, China and India, by all accounts huge producers of carbon emissions, don't appear to have any intention of joining in this initiative so the ultimate supposed benefit is greatly minimized, if not eliminated. It's also important to consider the role of an expanding federal government as the scope of its authority reaches deeper into the private sphere.

Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	Yes		For many years I have been an unwavering supporter of the 2nd Amendment and of the National Rifle Association's tireless commitment to preserve those rights through the ILA. I have followed with great interest as our constitutional right to keep and bear arms is continually challenged and it's rewarding to watch the U.S. Supreme Court repeatedly affirm that right. I have nothing to fear from a well-trained law abiding citizen that chooses to exercise their 2nd Amendment right.

Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff		No	It's essential that any constructive discussion regarding illegal immigration is undergirded by the clear understanding that illegal is illegal. It's also important to remove emotion from the equation and approach the issue systemically, beginning with the federal government exercising its responsibility to secure our borders. As long as our national borders retain their porosity, everything else we do is nothing more than a band-aid.

Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	Yes			I did, and did so because I agree with the three foundational principles of individual liberty, limited government, and economic freedom. I also find the 10-point template to be clear, elegantly simple, dynamic, and comprehensive. The Contract from America speaks to core issues that desperately need to be addressed in America today. It also reflects fundamental tenets of conservative thinking that, while not guarantees; enhance the likelihood of good personal choices, successful outcomes, and a strong national identity. My choice to run for Racine County Sheriff as a Republican is a matter of conscience, not convenience. For years I've been first and foremost a conservative, and second a Republican. 		Essay Question:
Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	The Racine County Sheriff's Department is a multi-faceted organization that requires a systemic approach, rooted in the goal of efficient and cost effective delivery of services, to achieve improvement. Several areas need to be addressed starting with an examination of the way we accomplish various tasks. It's essential that we identify key factors that affect efficiency and ultimately result in wasted time, reduced quality, and increased costs. In concert with that goal, we need to meet with all Racine County law enforcement Chiefs and heads of municipalities to identify common areas where we are better served by consolidation of services and/or resources. We need to clarify challenges, devise strategies, and implement solutions that can serve as a springboard for inter-agency cooperation. It's important to recognize that this isn't a turf war—it's about best serving the taxpayer.
Ronald Molnar	Racine County Sheriff	Restore contract to house state prisoners to recoup lost revenues; Racine County is projected to lose $710,000 this year. I will work hard to implement corrective action through Leadership and Attention to detail, Staff will be mandated and held accountable to ensure that any subject with questionable illegal alien status is referred to ICE and a determination on legal status is made prior to release from our custody.
Christopher Schmaling	Racine County Sheriff	As the Sheriff, my priority will be public safety. My first priority will be to evaluate each division within the department to make certain we are properly staffed, trained, and equipped to meet the goal, public safety.
Ron Johnson	United States Senate	I would repeal the recently passed health care reform bill, immediately stop all stimulus spending and apply unspent stimulus dollars toward debt reduction, and impose changes to the budget process that force politicians to make hard decisions that end deficit spending. Specifically, I support a balanced budget amendment, spending limitations that restrict budget growth to increases in population and inflation, or an amendment to limit the size and scope of the federal government.

Rob Taylor	United States Senate	I have a plan listed on my web site naming 12 items I will right away http://74.124.217.6/~patriot/?page_id=660
Dave Westlake	US Senate	Replace our progressive tax system with a consumption-based system that will spur economic growth and create jobs to move the US out of this recession.
John Heckenlively	US House of Representatives, Wisconsin	Job creation and getting the economy back on track. Support legislation to promote consumer demand, and legislation which creates hiring incentives for businesses.
Scott Paterick	Wisconsin Governor	Deal with state budget deficit. Bring together legislators, government agencies, citizens through listening sessions in all 72 counties to establish priorities and set a direction for state government.
Mark Neumann	Wisconsin Governor	Mark Neumann's first priority will be to lower spending to balance the budget using business accounting principles - creating tax cuts and an environment for positive job growth in Wisconsin.
Scott Walker	Wisconsin Governor	My first priority is getting Wisconsin on the path to economic recovery after eight years of fiscal mismanagement. We must balance the budget by cutting spending, not raising taxes or fees. We must lower taxes and reduce regulations to lower the costs of doing business in Wisconsin. We can do this by following through on my proposals to require state employees to contribute to their pensions and by eliminating 4,000 state positions. In short, we have to return government to its original, limited purpose.
Brett Davis	Wisconsin Lieutenant Governor	My first priority would be to reduce government spending. I have pledged to propose cuts equal to at least 100 times the lieutenant governor's office budget in wasteful government spending. This would result in more than $40 million of savings each year. We could start by stopping the not so high-speed Madison-Milwaukee rail line.
Rebecca Kleefisch	Lt. Governor	Advocate for less government intrusion into the free market system so that I can properly market Wisconsin's economic development climate. Our Governor is our CEO and our Lt. Gov. is our VP of Marketing. Our Lt. Governor should have the tools (read: the repeals of the tax and regulatory measures crippling Wisconsin's business climate) to tell the world that, "Wisconsin is open for business again!"

Robert Gerald Lorge	Wisconsin Lieutenant Governor	I am a Christian Constitutional Conservative who believes in Limited Government. We need to fix the out of control Budget Waste and do only the things that government alone should do, not everything else under the sun. I will work WITH OUR GOVERNOR instead of being his critic since we need UNITY ON OUR TEAM to prevent our one chance in this LIFEBOAT to save us from the Sinking Ship, since Wisconsin is now third in line for DEFAULT after California and Illinois. I would adopt policies much like Governor CHRISTIE IN NEW JERSEY who is saving that state by FREEZING FIRST and doing the hard work of CUTTING THE PORK FROM THE BUDGET, Stop the wasteful spending, so we can keep more of our own money, putting it to work in our own local communities to grow our economy and MAKE WISCONSIN GREAT AGAIN.
Dave Ross	Wisconsin Lieutenant Governor	Deliver a balanced budget, with no accounting gimmicks. A budget that includes no fee or tax increases.

Because both past, current, and even my opponent believe this to be government money they spend what they make on their office. I believe this money belongs to the people of Wisconsin and the office holder should manage it as such. Spend only what is needed to fulfill its responsibility and the excess should go to reduce our billion dollar deficit. Chris Wright	State Assembly 62nd District	We have to get the state government and spending in order, while improving the business climate which will bring jobs to Racine. This won't be a quick process but we will need to look at each department and look for areas of waste that can be eliminated.
Scott L. Gunderson	State Assembly 83rd District	Balancing the budget without raising taxes. We need all agency's to go to zero based budgeting. We need to prioritize all spending. And cutting waste and fraud in programs must be a priority.

Name:	What office are you running for?	What is the role of government is creating/stimulating jobs and economic growth?
		Essay Question:
Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	The government ought to operate within a narrowly defined constitutional framework that limits the scope of its intrusion into the private sphere and encourages free enterprise. Unfortunately, in the contentious discourse surrounding the federal government's authority, the U.S. Supreme Court has consistently tipped that balance in favor of the central government. Specifically, through case law, it has incrementally expanded the scope of the Commerce Clause, often coupled with the Necessary and Proper Clause, to expand the definition of what is considered commerce and consequently what laws (i.e. deeper penetration into the private sphere) are necessary to address these growing inclusions. Ultimately, sustainable economic health doesn't lie with government, a regulatory institution, but rather with a strong private sector that thrives on free market competition.
Ronald Molnar	Racine County Sheriff
Christopher Schmaling	Racine County Sheriff	Keeping jobs in the United States, being fiscally responsible by cutting wasteful spending, reducing tax burdens on businesses and average citizens.
Ron Johnson	United States Senate	Government does not create jobs, government creates debt. To grow our economy, we need to reduce taxes and regulations so that we can stimulate sustainable, private-sector job creation. I oppose taxpayer-funded bailouts and strongly believe in the power of the free market.

Rob Taylor	United States Senate	To reduce the restrictions To put into place fair trade instead of free trade Repeal the 16th amendment and get rid of corp, personal, and other unconstitutional taxes
Dave Westlake	US Senate	The government can only create the atmosphere in which the entrepreneurs feel comfortable enough to take a risk and create new business.
John Heckenlively	US House of Representatives, Wisconsin	If the private sector refuses to step in, government must in order to keep the economy moving. It was government spending (during World War II) that moved the United States out of the Great Depression. In good economic times, the government should regulate corporate behavior, to prevent abuses and keep the playing field level.
Scott Paterick	Wisconsin Governor	The role of government is to have enough regulations to protect the citizenry and yet not stifle economic development. We must try to have equity between government regulations and economic development.
Mark Neumann	Wisconsin Governor	The government must protect private property. It cannot take 'positive' action to stimulate the economy, it must let producers produce. Mark strongly opposes the federal government's 'stimulus' efforts like President Obama has done.
Scott Walker	Wisconsin Governor	People create jobs, not government. This is one of the three Brown Bag Principles that guides my campaign and will guide me as your next governor. The government's role is to foster an environment where jobs can be created by lowering taxes, reducing regulations, ending frivolous lawsuits, improving education and lowering health care costs. If we had done this sooner, companies like Mercury Marine wouldn't have even thought about leaving and certainly wouldn't have needed a taxpayer-funded incentive package to stay. By making Wisconsin competitive with other states, we can grow our economy and attract new job creators to our state.
Brett Davis	Wisconsin Lieutenant Governor	Government cannot create jobs, but it can create an environment that encourages private-sector job growth. We need to cut government spending, reduce taxes, eliminate Governor Jim Doyle's liberal rules and regulations to create the type of private-sector job growth environment that will turn our state's economy around.

Gonzalo Gonzalez	Racine County Sheriff	Too Big			Too Powerful compared to States		I believe that the federal government has grown far beyond the original intent of the framers of the Constitution. It has taken the liberty of expanding beyond the language of our national charter, enabled by judicial activism that has imbued the Constitution with an artificial and freakish character that lacks restraint. The initial character and vision of the Constitution was premised on immemorial values and principles that are as applicable today as they were in the beginning. The 10th amendment to the U.S. Constitution preserves a state's right to legislate on its behalf and for its benefit. However, the language of the amendment also gives the federal government greater legislative standing in areas specified by the Constitution and this is always a source of contention. The federal government seeks to prevail in their choices through legal challenges aimed at expanding the scope of their authority at the expense of states rights. I believe in a smaller, true federal government where the individual states retain their sovereignty, as envisioned by the framers of the Constitution, and wherein they rem

Robert Gerald Lorge	Wisconsin Lieutenant Governor	Too Big			Too Powerful compared to States		I believe in our AMERICAN FEDERAL REPUBLIC and that means Constitutional LIMITED GOVERNMENT where WE THE PEOPLE and our STATES (10th Amendment) are the REAL RULERS OF AMERICA and not the Federal Government and government bureaucrats and unelected officials. Benjamin Franklin in answering a lady as to what kind of government the Constitutional Congress had just created said it best: "A REPUBLIC Madam, If YOU can Keep It." We must KEEP IT, we must work day and night and be VIGILANT to KEEP OUR REPUBLIC lest it become another mob ruled democracy or dictatorship that falls into the hand of Tyrants and the International Socialists. And we must PRAY FOR GUIDANCE from ALMIGHTY GOD to help us preserve the fruits of our hard fought Liberty for this nation he specially created, as ONE NATION UNDER GOD. Without God, a nation is made by just mere men, and the RIGHTS OF INDIVIDUALS can disappear on a whim, but when our INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS are acknowledged as having been given to us by our CREATOR, not one can take them from us.

Scott L. Gunderson	State Assembly 83rd District	Too Big								We need to look to our Constitution. The 10th Amendment needs to be adhered to.
Jim Sanfilippo	Wisconsin State Treasurer	Too Big			Too Powerful compared to States					Federalism was established in the US Constitution in order to provide that neither level of government, state or federal, became too powerful over the other. There is no longer a balance as originally intended. The federal government has continued to claim authority over the states at nearly every turn. This trend must be reversed.
Kurt Schuller	Wisconsin State Treasurer	Too Big			Too Powerful compared to States
